Interesting Facts

The engine of a plane does not support the weight of the plane in flight. The engine pulls the plane through the air at a rate of speed sufficient to create lift on the wings equal to the weight of the plane.

What if the motor stops? This so rarely happens that we hard-ly consider it a possibility. However, the plane will still main-tain speed and control in a glide with the engine entirely shut off. The plane has a gliding angle of fourteen to one (it will glide in any direction, horizontally, a distance fourteen times greater than its altitude).

For example, an Aeronca is fly-ng at five thousand feet; we may shut off the engine by closng the throttle or turning the ignition off and gliding approxi-mately fourteen miles from that point. We may land then in any small field within a circle twentyeight miles in diameter, the area of which is 615 square miles. A further analysis shows that there are an average of no less than three open fields per square mile in this locality; this then, pro-vides more than eighteen hundred fields within gliding range from an altitude of one mile. Inasmuch as every landing is affected with engine shut off, we assume then that we are making a normal landing in every respect except that we are not landing on the usual field. So what if you forget to fill the tank and run out of fuel at a reasonable altitude? Land near a filling station and fill-er up.

GRAYLING SUN VALLEY OF WINTER SPORTS

Chub DeWolfe, feature writer for the Toledo Blade, in his for the Toledo Blade, in his "Among The Folks" column rec-ently said as follows:

"The Toledo Blade, in his Mr. O. P. Scheumann, Grayling, Mich.

Dear Sir:

"If the boys don't lose their faith, Grayling, known so well to Toledoans as a summer spot, will prove it-self to be the Sun Valley of winter sports in this section of the country. They've got the snow, they've got the will up there, they've got the hills. And right now, folks who like the wide open spaces outdoors and the genial comfort and friendliness within doors, that far-seeing hotel hosts provide, are hav-ing the times of their lives. "Toledoans who have been up there say that within a year or so there will be a half; million dollar investment there. Grayling through the years, has won a name for itself in the summer season. Friends say that the new steel toboggans are safe and fast, and that the skiing, skating, hiking over the hills through the snow, as well as the ice fishing, are fine. They suggest that when you go up, not to fail to visit the Queen's Igloo

Builds A Model New Home

Charles Clauson and family are getting nicely settled in their new home on Elm Street, which, although not quite complete on the outside due to weather conditions, is complete on the inside,

The house is constructed from the ground up according to "Guildway" standards, and nothing has been overlooked to make it comfortable, attractive permanent. Sheathing ½" insulating board with 8" cedar beveled siding, painted white, and the roof has a lave of felt under the green asphalt strip shingles. Interior walls are finished with a coat of cement plaster with lime finish over per forated rocklath, and are painted in a stiple finish. Floors throughout are of maple, sanded and finished with wood sealer, and interior woodwork of the new type Clear White Pine backband trim. Kitchen is complete with sink and built-in cupboards and finished in white enamel.

All lumber and building terials were furnished by Gray-ling Lumber and Supply Co., and Herbert Walthers had charge of the construction.

A number of people have inspected this house during its con-struction, and Mr. Peterson of the Grayling Lumber & Supply Co. states that anyone interest ed in building a home may have the opportunity of seeing Mr. Clauson's home, by making appointment at the office of that

Mr. Oscar Schumann, Publisher The Avalanche Grayling, Michigan

Dear Oscar: Had an uneventful, safe trip returning home yesterday. Rather surprised to find so much snow down here when the roads were so clear around Grayling. I want to thank you personally for your hospitality in providing a most pleasant, enjoy-able weekend at Grayling. I enjoyed the winter sports very much and still chuckle thinking of my rendezvous with Suicide Sal on the big toboggan. I am inspired to comment again in my Michigan Mirror on the possibilities Grayling offers in the development of an outstanding winter sports playground for all Michigan if not for most of the

Today when the postman delivered the Crawford Avalanche of Thursday, February 16th, I was much interested to read in "Memories of Grayling" something about the Mantz brothers, Henry and William, and their early lumbering operations in Crawford county. William Mantz is my father and today (Feb. 28) he is enjoying his 90th birthday at his home in Milwaukee. He and mother celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on Nov. 2nd, 1938. His brother, Henry Mantz, was 93 years old last June. Both gentlemen are in fairly good health. The Avalanche has been read in our home for quite a number of years. O. Palmer was the editor during that time. Many of the names of the oldtimers are familiar to me and I have in my mind a very clear picture of the Gravling of earlier days.

A friend has sent me several copies of your very interesting

Yours sincerely, Marie Mantz Hutchinson.

Some of the players did not leave anything in the dressing room but they were not over-looked as they found their clothes scattered all over the floor, hid in empty lockers and more or less ruined. This is not the first time this has happened as a similar incident last week when the high school played there and last year, when the Ramblers visited It seems that there is always a bunch of kids hanging around the halls and locker rooms; kids that would put "The Dead End

Another Reason For Mancelona-St. Mary's Need of Straits Bridge District B. B. Champs

The district basketball tournament held at Gaylord last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, found With Roscommon, the 1937 Class "D" winner entered in the Lake City tournament, Vanderbilt. Emphasizing that the Mackinac Johannesburg, Frederic and St. Mary's of Gaylord were left to fight it out for honors in this division.

In the semi-finals night St. Mary's of Gaylord eliminated Johannesburg while Frederic bowed to Vanderbilt. By some quirk of fate tournament play seems to hold a jink over Frederic. Several good teams from there have been entered in tho that a Frederic team will soon break the ice and begin to collect its share of tournament trophies.

In the finals Saturday night Gaylord St. Marys proved to be a little too much for Vanderbilt and copped the decision to carry off the trophy and earn the right to represent this district in the Petoskey tournament.

The class "C" semi-finals found Gaylord meeting Onaway in the game which many declared to be the classiest game of the tour-nament. Both teams seemed to concentrate on defense which led to a low scoring game and kept the fans on edge through-out. Oneway finally broke thru Gaylord's defense, late in the game, for enough points to eke out a 12-14 victory.

The Mancelona-Grayling game turned out to be a surprise to most basketball followers of this section. The Green and White seemed to be unable to penetrate Mancelona's defense and saw the Northern team pile up a big margin mostly by virtue of superior height. The end of the game found Mancelona out in front to the tune of 13-29. Saturday night Mancelona stepped out and proved her Friday's victory was no fluke by defeating Onaway 26-13. This marks the first time in recent vears that Mancelona has taken a district tournament. All year this rangy team has given promise of becoming a real basketball outfit and it really seemed to come into its own in this tournament. This weekend it will represent this district in Regional tournament Petoskey and if it plays up to the form shown lately the class teams entered seem to be headed for a lot of trouble.

the patient actually pasted adhesive tape across the mouth in order to prevent this habit.

When the mouth is watering constantly a suspicion is aroused of alcoholism in certain instances but more commonly a decayed tooth or some sore about the mouth is stimulating the salivary glands to excessive secretion. The symptom occurs, also in indiges-tion and may be accompanied by the regurgitation of hot, sour and unpleasant, partly digested stomach contents, usually highly acid. This gives rise to a nasty taste which may be either bitter or

A peculiar bitterness can occur when the stomach juice is stained by bile regurgitated from the small intestines to the stomach and then into the oesophagus.

It is interesing that septic tonsils, sores in the mouth, and disease of the nasal membrane in general seldom give rise to a nasty taste, although they are frequently a cause of bad breath, or excessive salivary secretion.

The long-continued use of certain medications will produce the peculiar taste in the mouth, often metallic or bitter, because certain medicines are in the saliva and persist in the mouth while the medication is being used Persons with chronic Bright's disease may have a bitter taste for a similar reason in that the waste products intended to be secreted by the kidney accumulate in the blood and may be found in large quantities in the saliva.

Assuming that the mouth is clean, the tonsils and sinuses normal, the nasty taste associated with the heavily coated tongue is best eliminated by avoiding too much tobacco, too much indiges tion and breathing at night with the mouth open.

Ranked Second Only to Declaration The "Olive Branch" petition, signed by John Hancock, and 45 other members of the congress, is considered by many historians second in significance only to the Declaration of Independence, Signed at Philadelphia on July 8, 1775, it was almost the last effort of the United colonies to induce the stubborn George III to avert the impending revolution by repealing the statutes which were distressing his trans-Atlantic subjects. Twenty-five of the delegates who subscribed their names to it were to sign the Declaration a year later. The doc-ument, engrossed in a bold round hand, covers seven pages.

CIVIL SERVICE OR JOBS?

A lot of doubt and confusion has been created about the Civil Service situation in Michigan.

Service situation in Michigan.

An overwhelming majority of the citizens of Michigan are in ous to know the truth.

Stripped of all the encumbering details here are the main facts as we understand them:

1. Under the previous administration of Governor Fitzgerald, a office. "study commission" was appointed to draw up a Civil Service bill. This body was headed by Dr. James K. Pollock of the University of Michigan, an outstandauthority on government

2. The measure drawn up by the Pollock commission had the support of advocates of genuine Civil Service. This included members of the Michigan Merit Association, an honestly non-partisan group whose executive committee included an equal number of Republicans and Demo-

3. This bill was made a law during the administration of Governor Murphy. However, several provisions were introduced by the Democratic controlled legislature which undoubtedly weakened the bill. It made it possible to play politics, to a limited extent, with the system.

4. The system put into effect was a vast improvement over the old fashioned spoils system that was in operation beforehand. It can serve the people of Michigan better than the politicians who are now seeking to eliminate it so that they may pass out jobs to vote-getting supporters.

5. It is very noticeable that Dr. Pollock and the other members of the original study commission are unanimously in favor of retaining the present law and then amending it so that it will comply with the original recommend-ations. They are absolutely op-posed to an outright repeal of the measure or the substitution of a new one for it. They recognize these other steps in most cases as pure sub-terfuges on the part of those who declare they are for the Civil Service "principle" but have their eyes on nothing but the jobs they can pass out to "deserving Republicans," regardless of the services these employes can render

Thousands of Republicans in Michigan are thoroughly aroused by the threat of their own party representatives to scuttle Civil Services held a Service. They will not pay much You are welcome. attention to what officials in Lan Southwest's 'Kivas' Closely Guarded "Kiva" is the name given to the secret ceremonial chamber which from prehistoric times has been the most important feature of every Inleast a score of pueblos, or villages, occupied by the descendants of the "hohokam," "those who have van-ished," flourish in New Mexico. In each the kiva is scrupulously guarded from white visitors. Caucasians have access, however, to the ancient kivas in the prehistoric ruins of the Southwest.

First Government Lighthouse The first lighthouse built by the federal government after its founding stands on Cape Henry guarding entrance to the Virginia capes. Materials for its construction had been assembled by the colonial administration of Virginia, but with the advent of the new government the site was ceded to the latter. The light was put in operation in 1791. It was replaced in 1881 by a modern lighthouse, but the old tower stands as a historic landmark.

Area of Dominion of Canada The area of the Dominion of Canada is greater than that of continental United States. The area of United States proper is 3,026,790 square miles, while that of the Dominion of Canada is 3,729,665 square miles. United States proper and Alaska have an area of 3,617,675 square miles. Thus it will be seen that the Dominion of Canada has a greater area than the combined area of the United States proper and Alaska.

Many Mountains in Vermont In the comparatively small state of Vermont there are more than 900 mountains with summits 2,000 feet or more above the sea. Many of these mountains are accessible by motor, notably Mt. Mansfield, highest in the state. From this lofty peak, 4,393 feet high, views of the Green mountain range may be enjoyed. Lake Champlain, 30 miles away in New York state, is clearly in view for much of its expanse.

Shoe-Throwing at Newly

Married Ancient Custom The custom of throwing shoes at newly married couples is very old and may be a relic of the ancient practice of giving a shoe to another to symbolize the transfer of possession. Sometimes new ownership was symbolized by throwing the shoe on the property in question. "Over Edom will I cast out my shoe," says Psalm 60:8, meaning that the country was to be subdued. In Ruth 4:7, we read:

"Now this was the manner in former time in Israel concerning redeeming and concerning changing, for to confirm all things; a man plucked off his shoe, and gave it to his neighbor: and this was a testi-mony in Israel." Accordingly, when Boaz's kinsman relinquished his rights to Ruth and her inheritance, he "drew off his shoe" in the presence of witnesses.

Among the Anglo-Saxons it was customary for the father to give one of his daughter's shoes to the bridegroom, who touched her on the head with it, the ceremony signifying the passage of authority and dominion over the daughter from parent to husband. Later, it is supposed, the custom degenerated and the shoe was thrown after the couple as they departed for their new house.

Some writers, however, believe that throwing shoes at newly mar-ried pairs represents missile-throwing and is a savage survival of the days when the bride was often carried away by force from her people who attempted to drive off her abductor. This theory seems to be partially confirmed by the practice in Turkey and other parts of the Near East, where the bridegroom alone is chased by the guests and pelted with slippers.

How the Throne Descends

When a Sovereign Passes Within the reigning English family the throne descends according to the same principle of primogeniture that formerly governed in the inheritance of land. When a sovereign dies, the eldest son—who is by birth duke of Cornwall and is created prince of Wales and earl of Chester-inherits; if he is not living, his eldest surviving son succeeds, or in lieu of a son, the eldest surviving daughter. If no heir is available, in this branch of the family, the deceased sovereign's second son (or a son or daughter thereof) inherits, and so on, elder sons being always preferred to younger, and male heirs to female, notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

As Queen Victoria was an only child, the daughter of Edward, duke of Kent, the fourth son of George III, the throne would have descended to Ernest, duke of Cumberland and earl of Armagh, the eighth child and fifth son of George III, in the event of Victoria's death before she became queen.

Victoria ascended the throne upon the death of William IV, the third son of George III. William had three daughters who predeceased him.

Liverpool Has Romantic Touch

Geography has played an unmistakable part in shaping Liverpool's destiny. The city is situated only three miles from the Irish sea on the north bank of the tidal Mersey river, which ranges in width from a mile to three miles and extends inland far enough to provide safe anchorage for ships. King John founded the town early in the Thirteenth century, but it developed slowly until America was discovered. Liverpool engaged in the slave traffic, and its hold seafarers also played an active part in the romantic days of smuggling rum, sugar and tobacco. But the port's real prosperity dates from 1840, when Samuel Cunard inaugurated regular steamship service between the Old world and the New.

'We Must Hang Together' "We must hang together" is one of the famous puns in history and is attributed to Benjamin Franklin. When the Declaration of Independence was signed, John Hancock, president of the continental congress, put his name to the document first. "Now we must all hang together," he remarked as he wrote his name. "Yes, indeed," retorted Doctor Franklin, "we must all hang together or assuredly we shall all hang separately."

Home of Birds of Paradise Robinson Crusoe's island of To page is the ward of Trinidad. Tobago lies on one of the unbeaten paths which can lay claim to unspoiled beauty. The Bird of Paradise island is 11/2 miles from Tobago. On the former the birds of paradise live in hilly and verdant environment. Nowhere else in the world can these birds be seen in their wild state except in Dutch New Guinea whence they came.

Greatest Master of Counterpoint The German composer Johann Se bastian Bach (1685-1750) was the world's greatest master of the counterpoint, and according to a writer in Collier's Weekly, the first to use the thumb and little finger on the pianoforte and, most important of all, was the most original thinker in the history of music, having inspired such later geniuses as Mozart, Beethoven, Mendelssohn, Chopin, Schumann, Liszt, Wagner and Rubinstein.

Among the bills is one sponsor ed by Senator D. Hale Brake of Stanton which would compel all employees, hired between Jan. 1, 1937 and Jan. 1, 1938, under "qualifying" examinations, to take competitive examinations.

This bill would also eliminate all present eligible lists and would exempt from civil service all divisional heads who were in a position to make policies. Under Senator Brake's bill the Democratic county chairman, for xample, could retain his job only by proving his competence through an open competitive test. The fairness of such an examination would depend, of course The governor at first took the attitude that gambling was a matter for local law-enforcement publican or Democratic publican or Democratic.

The Stanton-Republican, chair man of the Senate Judiciary committee, is one of the outstanding influential leaders in that cham ber. Hence his views are of significance in the present civil service controversy.

Spring Election

With the spring election only month away, the legislature is proceeding more cautiously on controversial matters that might levelop into campaign issues.

The labor mediation board plan

This measure, proposing a 10-day "cooling off" period between declaration of strike and the actual walk-out, was originally drawn up with numerous restrictions on both employer and employee. Care should always be exerised in taking off the cap from an overheated radiator. Use a large rag to cover it and keep your face turned away when the cap is removed.

Be especially careful when pouring water into a radiator which has been overheated due water running low. It should be allowed to cool. If water is poured in while the engine is still hot, the cylinder block may crack or a bad boil-over may occur, blowing the hot water into your face.
